Fun time: Cup song challenge (optional)

Have you heard about "Cup song"?

The original song "When I'm Gone" was written by A. P. Carter, then recorded in 1931 by the Carter Family (not to be confused with their 1928 song "Will You Miss Me When I'm Gone?").¹ The song was reworked in 1937 by J. E. Mainer. Over the years it has been recorded by many people including Mainer's Mountaineers and Charlie Monroe. In 1940 it was released by Elizabeth Cotten, a vocalist and guitar player. It can also be heard in the film Dan in Real Life.

Lulu and the Lamphshades were the first to perform the song using the cup game for percussion. Anna Burden made her own version on YouTube of the Lulu and the Lamspshades video that was discovered by Reddit, and where Anna Kendrick learned the routine, prompting dozens of other YouTube users to submit cover versions of the song using the Cup Clap technique. It was soon dubbed The Cup Song.

The song is also used for the theme song for the BBC Two sitcom 'Mum' starring Lesley Manville.
